RUGER RIFLES

RUGER "REAL LIFE" STORIES

Dear Mr. Ruger,

I want to thank you for making such fine firearms and to let you know that one of your M77 Mark II rifles helped me out on the hunt of a lifetime.

While I have hunted Whitetails in Texas all my life, it was at my brother Gary's urging that I decided to take my hunting to the next level - a moose hunt on the Alaskan Peninsula. We arrived at our camp in early September, just a day after the start of moose season. After setting up camp, we decided to hike to a spot overlooking Rapid Creek Valley to scope out the area. Within minutes, we spotted an antlered palm belonging to a moose lying about 800 yards away. When the moose stood up, we almost died! Our guide said it was the biggest bull he had ever seen, and he had seen a lot of moose in his long career of guiding.

The next morning, we returned to our overlook and were shocked to find that the monster moose was still in the same spot as before. By the time we hiked through the rough terrain and undergrowth to where we had seen the moose, he had vanished. Though we waited all day for him to return to his favored spot, we never saw him again that day.

By the fourth day, our patience was rewarded. We again saw the big moose back in his usual spot. We approached, much more carefully this time, and were rewarded with a clear shot at about 100 yards.

My bull is the largest Alaska-Yukon moose entered in the Boone and Crockett Club's 25th Awards Program, and at 247-7/8, it places fourteenth in the all-time record book. The rack has a spread of 80-3/8 inches, making it the third largest spread ever recorded.

I want to thank you again for making such a reliable rifle. I have always been a fan of Ruger firearms - especially your bolt action rifles. I currently own a 12 gauge Red Label shotgun and Ruger bolt action rifles in .17 HMR, .25-06, .30-06, and .300 Win. Mag. There is a certain confidence that comes from knowing that you have a rifle that won't let you down. Thanks for making such a great product.

Sincerely,

Mark Rose
Dallas, Texas

RUGER SHOTGUNS

RUGER "REAL LIFE" STORIES

Dear Mr. Ruger,

As the first weeks of December in New England took a turn for winter, I decided it was time for this upland gunner to seek more favorable shooting conditions across the pond. Such is what happened a short time ago when I felt it was time for the Ruger Gold Label to become acquainted with its distant Scottish heritage.

With temperatures between 35 and 50 degrees, persistent wind and drizzle, and only about eight hours of daylight, most would consider the weather in Scotland a bit dismal this time of year. On the first morning at Sorn Castle, the seven members of our shooting party were gathered and introduced. As I anticipated, all carried very traditional side-by-side game guns. When the Gold Label was quietly drawn from its case, it drew immediate comment. It looked somewhat traditional, with its light weight, classic round body, and slender, straight-gripped stock. The stainless receiver, single trigger and changeable chokes, however, were unquestionably American. After everyone did a bit of handling, the weight and balance received a measure of acceptability.

Over the next few days, the group became well acquainted and was treated to pheasants and woodcock in abundant numbers. These birds are bred to be strong flyers and are skilled at avoiding and escaping predators – especially those carrying shotguns. Through it all, the Gold Label received high marks for its total reliability, even though it was thoroughly drenched during a persistent rainy period.

In retrospect, I couldn't have been more pleased with the Gold Label on this trip. While it may be reminiscent of a Scottish heritage, its character reflects the careful blending of the finest handling qualities of those classic old shotguns with the modern features, reliability, and masterful craftsmanship for which all Ruger firearms are known.

As the final good-byes were being said, one crusty Scotsman ultimately confessed that I, and "the new American gun" had made quite a good account of ourselves. I couldn't have hoped for higher praise!

Sincerely,

Ray Roy

RUGER PISTOLS

RUGER "REAL LIFE" STORIES

Dear Sturm, Ruger,

Over ten years ago, a couple of hunting buddies and I were forced to jump into a canal to escape from a swarm of bees that we had disturbed while planting a wildlife food plot. My blue steel Ruger Mark II fell into the canal and I was unable to recover it.

Recently, the canal was dredged to remove silt deposits, and I recovered my Ruger from the spoil bank with a metal detector. A thorough cleaning revealed that the action and mechanical parts of the gun were not corroded. I fired an entire clip of ammo with it the same day it was recovered without a single malfunction.

Very truly yours,

Lyle LeBlanc
Schriever, Louisiana

The conditions described in this customer letter are extreme, and users should not expect any firearm to function after being subjected to such conditions. Any Ruger firearm subjected to such harsh conditions or abuse should be inspected by the Ruger Product Service Department prior to use.

"I fired an entire clip of ammo with it the same day it was recovered without a single malfunction."

Seeing is believing. Here is the actual Ruger Mark II pistol found by Lyle LeBlanc ten years after he lost it in a Louisiana canal.

RUGER "REAL LIFE" STORIES

Dear Sturm, Ruger,

The summer before last, my brother and I were enjoying a fishing trip. Just after midnight on the 16th of July, 2002, I was asleep on my cot. A male black bear walked into our camp and attacked and mauled me while I slept.

I found myself on the ground, in the dark and bleeding profusely from my head. When I heard my brother's screams, I knew we were going to die if I didn't do something – and rapidly. I knew that if I ran, the bear would easily catch me. My gun was my last option.

I had left my Ruger Vaquero on top of a canvas bag. On my hands and knees, by pure luck, I found the .44-40 and yanked it out of the holster.

There was the bear, not three to four feet away. At that instant I cocked the hammer back and took very deliberate and careful aim. My Vaquero seemed to go off by itself. The bear dropped to the ground.

"I owe you folks at Ruger a lot... in fact, I owe you my life."

After the fight was over, an off-duty police officer who had been camped nearby transported me part way down the mountain, where we were met by a helicopter and I was flown to a hospital.

Even under those conditions, my Vaquero functioned flawlessly, at a desperate instant in time when my life depended on it. I am certain that, had my weapon failed, I would have lost my life. The only thing that separated me from eternity was the Ruger I had in my hand, and a burning desire to survive.

A fellow only has to get into a situation like I did ONCE to fully appreciate what quality really means. I owe you folks at Ruger a lot...in fact, I owe you my life. How's that for an endorsement? What more can I say about my most prized firearm...my Ruger Vaquero. From the bottom of my heart...THANK YOU.

SINGLE ACTION REVOLVERS

THE TOP CHOICES IN SINGLE ACTION REVOLVERS

In 1956, a powerful new cartridge was introduced with such appeal that it remains one of the most successful cartridges a half-century later. The .44 Magnum was the perfect cartridge for the Ruger single action line, and Bill Ruger wasted no time chambering the popular Ruger Blackhawk® in it. Over the years, its descendants — the New Model Blackhawk, Vaquero®, and New Vaquero — have proven to be among the most popular and most reliable single actions ever made. New for 2006, Sturm, Ruger proudly introduces the New 50th Anniversary .44 Magnum “Flattop” New Model Blackhawk® revolver with the look and feel of the original .44 Magnum Blackhawk.

DOUBLE ACTION REVOLVERS

SOPHISTICATED ENGINEERING AND QUICK TAKEDOWN

Ruger GP100® medium-framed revolvers and the smaller-framed Ruger SP101® double action revolvers offer strength, simplicity, and ease of maintenance. The same triple-locking cylinder design featured on our large-frame Super Redhawk revolvers is incorporated into these models as well. Extra steel is added to critical areas, and the frame requires no removable side-plates, which could compromise strength. Because Ruger double action revolvers are shot often, they are designed with integrated subassemblies, so takedown for cleaning is quick and easy.

All Ruger double action revolvers incorporate a patented Ruger triple-locking mechanism that securely locks the cylinder into the frame at front, rear and bottom.

The patented Ruger Conversion Kit is an entirely new operating system for these revolvers. It can help prevent accidental discharges caused by a drop or blow to the hammer if the user has failed to take the basic safety precaution of keeping the hammer down on an empty chamber. That's very important!

This mechanism can be factory-installed without any further alteration. The frame and other major parts will not be affected by this conversion. The value of the gun will not be impaired, and we will return your original parts for collector's purposes.

To receive a free factory safety conversion, write to us at Sturm, Ruger and Company, Inc.; Lacey Place, Dept. KC; Southport, CT 06890. We will provide you with a shipping container and instructions. You only pay initial shipping to our factory. We will cover all other charges including return shipping costs. Please write to us without delay if you have one of these guns, and tell your friends about the availability of this kit. Remember that the safest way to carry any older single action revolver, regardless of manufacturer, is with the hammer down on an empty chamber.
